

The Partnership for Adolescent Catechesis

A collaborative effort by NFCYM, NCCL, and NCEA, in cooperation with the USCCB, to enhance the quality of adolescent catechesis, especially through a comprehensive approach to faith formation in parishes and schools. Our collective goal is to foster a shared ownership for adolescent catechesis across ministerial boundaries and structures. Our efforts are focused on supporting the development of an effective and contemporary understanding of adolescent catechesis and to promote a comprehensive approach to Catholic faith formation throughout our country.

Best Practices in Adolescent Catechesis: Methods, Models, and Meanings

During the 2006 National Conference on Catholic Youth Ministry (NCCYM), a unique series of workshops will be offered for those involved in faith formation at the parish, school, and diocesan level. This special track will examine some of the best models and methods being used today to help form the faith of younger and older adolescents.

Each Best Practices workshop features four presenters sharing their best practice on one of the following focus areas:

- Methods covering the faith themes of “Jesus Christ,” “Sacraments,” and “Church.”
- Models used by parish/school and diocesan structures.
- Meanings will be addressed by Bishop Malone as well as a panel of national leaders from NFCYM, NCCL, and NCEA.

Attendance of workshops in this special track is open to all conference attendees without any additional costs.

It is critically important for teens to be growing in their knowledge of the faith! Most of us committed to the faith formation of teens have been struggling to find ways to accomplish this mandate. The National Study of Youth and Religion (NSYR) has alarmed us with its claim that “On most measures of religious faith, belief, experience and practice, Catholic teens as a whole show up as fairly weak.” We have the message. We have the motivation. What are the means?
